Disciplinary rules

PADMAN Pahlavi Constitutional Monarchy

Translation for review from the supplied Persian disciplinary rules. The Persian original remains the reference text.

Dear members and friends,

Disciplinary rules are necessary for every group so that it can pursue its planned goals with less friction. The following rules of conduct and discipline are therefore presented to all members of PADMAN Pahlavi Constitutional Monarchy.

1. Meeting agendas

Every PADMAN meeting must have an agenda prepared by the Central Core and posted in the group's system at least 48 hours before the meeting. The agenda must be consistent with PADMAN's overall objectives. Members who have further suggestions after seeing the agenda may raise them in the PADMAN Telegram group no later than 24 hours before the meeting. One Central Core member acts as the meeting moderator. Two or three people working behind the scenes organize participants' admission, monitor comments, mute microphones or remove disruptive participants when necessary, and manage guest speakers' speaking time.

2. Attendance at meetings

All members must attend meetings. As videos of PADMAN meetings are shared online, members are asked to attend in formal, neat attire and observe good words and good deeds throughout. Before joining, members must enter their full name in Zoom. Microphones must remain muted except when it is their turn to speak, and cameras must remain on throughout, except where necessary. If a member cannot keep the camera on, they should explain this in the comments and turn it on for at least a few minutes so that they can be recognized.

3. Members' speech and conduct

Speaking outside the agenda or unrelated to the discussion is inappropriate and prohibited. The moderator must immediately remind the speaker; if the speaker continues, their microphone will be muted. No one may label, insult or use abusive language against other members during meetings, in the group or even outside PADMAN.

4. Members' proposed projects

During the week, members may briefly present projects consistent with PADMAN's overall objectives and outlook in its Telegram group, under the heading "Proposed project". Any project supported by at least five other members with a "thumbs up" will be reviewed by the Central Core. If approved, responsibility for carrying it out rests with the proposing individual or organization and several other volunteers.

5. Compliance with these provisions

By reading these rules, PADMAN members confirm that they accept them. The Central Core may remind members who breach the provisions on the first occasion, issue a warning on the second, and, if the conduct recurs, even expel them from PADMAN.

With gratitude, warmth and respect,

Members of the Central Core of PADMAN Pahlavi Constitutional Monarchy
